The Harshest Critique Jesus Ever Spoke...

Teachers of deaf children explain that when a child with severe hearing impairment closes its eyes... [it has the potential to] prevent any new information from penetrating its world. [This is an image in miniature] of the scribes in today's Gospel who accused Jesus of wielding diabolical power. They had made their judgement and they would allow nothing – no good works, no life-giving message, no joy – to penetrate their consciousness and modify their opinion. They [thought they] knew sinful activity when they saw it! Jesus called that attitude blasphemy against the Holy Spirit. It's an equal-opportunity sin, attractive to [both extremes of the political spectrum]. It's a form of idolatry through which we divinize our own opinion or dogma – [and demonize others'] – refusing to allow God or anyone to break through to broaden our vision.

Jesus calls this unforgiveable because people who willingly imprison themselves in an ideology wall themselves off from grace and initiate their own rigor mortis. It's a vicious-cycle malady, self-reinforcing because they interpret any question that could give them a key to freedom as a temptation to be rigidly avoided. Jesus' condemnation of that sort of attitude was the harshest critique he spoke in the Gospels. He directed it at people who had so entrapped themselves that they would only go from bad to worse, eventually plotting his crucifixion...

[Whichever group] we identify with, Mark tells us this story to show that Jesus offers us a place in the inner circle. Becoming a part of that circle will demand that we drop all claim to importance based on race, gender, ethnicity, nationality, profession, economic status, etc. We also have to learn to grasp our certainties loosely, willing to let additional revelation upend them and us. As Pope Francis said in July 2016, we are called to give up "all motives of personal pride, of careerism or hunger for power... becoming humble instruments of salvation worked by Jesus' own sacrifice." When we do that, we will stop resembling children who try to blot out reality by closing their eyes and covering their ears. Only then will we be able to hear the Lord call us brother, sister, mother, friend.
