REFLECTION

Trickster Saviour

*When he saw them, he said to them, "Go and show yourselves to the priests."
And as they went, they were made clean. Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, praising God with a loud voice. He prostrated himself at Jesus' feet and thanked him.
And he was a Samaritan. Then Jesus asked, "Were not ten made clean?
But the other nine, where are they?" (Luke 17: 14-17)*

His hair the colour of gasoline his smile as wide as a wild coyote unpredictable as an August tornado he comes to play his saving tricks on us

He sends ten lepers to the priest for healing wondering if any will make a u-turn when wonder strikes doing exactly what he says is missing the point but the trip wire for exposure of myopic seriousness

He frustrates the easy day with interruptions like cats and watches our pressure gauges glide past red he slips a nail under the new car tire and waits for profanity to roll

Everyone knows there is a trickster among us no one seems to remember that his cunning is the way he lets us in on the joke of grace and traps us with his playful, winsome befriending

– Rev Michael Coffey (Pastor, First English Lutheran Church, Austin, TX),
