REFLECTIONS ON THE SUFFERING SERVANT

Today's readings beg the question: "Disciple, just who do you think you are?" The true answer comes from knowing what we seek and the company we keep.

Last week we celebrated the canonization of St Óscar Romero, the Archbishop of San Salvador who was martyred in 1980 while he was celebrating the Eucharist in the chapel of a sisters' hospital for terminal cancer patients. Earlier in his time as archbishop, Romero went to the town of Aguilares where Jesuit Fr. Rutilio Grande had been martyred. There he preached a sermon in which he told the people whose church had been desecrated: "You are an image of the wronged Divinity... but if you suffer this pain with faith, then you will give your suffering a redemptive meaning and the people of Aguilares will sing a joyful hymn of liberation."

Romero was calling his people to assume the cost of discipleship that sacrilegious circumstances were holding out before them. He was telling the people of Aguilares that they had the grace and thus the ability to be Isaiah's contemporary servants of the Lord. In recent months, Pope Francis has given a renewed focus to what St Óscar Romero told his people in the 1980s. In the apostolic exhortation Gaudete et Exsultate (#20, 101), Francis calls us to unite ourselves to the Lord's death and resurrection in a unique and personal way. For some, like Romero, that may entail death. For others it calls forth the holiness of solidarity with people who are outcast: the innocent unborn, the poor and abandoned, the vulnerable elderly and the victims of human trafficking. It takes very little time for solidarity with such as these to engender the ire that led Isaiah's servant to suffer and Jesus to be put to death.
