Readings: 27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Gospel: Luke 17: 5-10

HOW NOT TO BE THANKED

“Servants don't deserve special thanks for doing what they are supposed to do. So you also, when you have obeyed all the orders given you, must say, 'There is no merit in our service; what we have done is only what we were in duty bound to do.'”
– (Luke 17 - CEV/WNT)

We did these servant duties the feedings and healings and knitting and praying the giving and cooking and fixing and cleaning and then we tied these obligatory faith tasks to neoprene white weather balloons hydrogen-filled launched them into the stratosphere and beyond to see where the ghostly wind might take them soaring over cities and oceans and stadiums and slums

we let them go from our slavish egos to become part of the seasons and the cycles and the ways of the global organism so they were no longer us or part of us and no longer tied to our oxygen-weighted lungs and brains and blood

we imagined they might rise up to God and burst from glory and fall back to earth and shower the love-dry human fields with drips of kindness and drops of compassion and our entire selves might rise and burst and praise
