REFLECTION

Shuttered Doors and Detours

“So I say to you, Ask, and it will be given you; search, and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened for you. For everyone who asks receives, and everyone who searches finds, and for everyone who knocks, the door will be opened.” (Luke 11: 9-10)

When we return to poetry and myth and music and put reason and intelligence in their proper place which is to say a seat of limited honour and humbled praise then we might be ready to listen to this Jesus strophe:

Knock, and the door will be opened.
Everyone who asks, receives.
Search, and you will find.
Persistence will be met with mercy.

But you stand there with your bloody rapping knuckles and wonder what to do with shuttered doors and detours because your tumour is growing apace with the calendar your brimming pantry no longer satisfies anyone’s nourishment

So you stop tapping and asking and searching persistence gives way to the power of pain like Abraham you give up the bargaining just short of total clemency you think you have all the universe had to offer and you’re done

But you’ll always wonder, won’t you, what absurd blessing would come if you had knocked one more time with red bandages and waited if you had kept questing beyond the rift of data with a run and a jump and let holy imagination compose your future with verse and metaphor, rhythm and melody.
